Shay is the 8th of12 children born to her loving parents Tyrone and Durinda Washington. Her parents instilled in her andher siblings the belief in family and the strength andpower of prayer. Raised in northwest Detroit Shayattended and graduated from Mumford High School (aDetroit Public School). After testing the waters of theworkforce for a year Shay then turned to the historical black college, Wilberforce Universityfor her undergraduate studies. In 1998 Shay graduated from Wilberforce with a BachelorsDegree in Mental Health. Upon returning to Detroit, Shay took a position as team leaderand subsequently supervisor at Vista Maria; utilizing her education and working with youngladies with social and educational disabilities. After several years at Vista Maria she turned herattention to teaching. She has and is currently serving as a 4th and 5th grade teacher at theNew Providence Academy. Shay has always had a passion for kids, it is her belief that withthe support of spiritual leaders, parents, teachers, family, and positive role models our youthof today will be ready to face any challenges that come against them. In the fall of 2003 Shaywas introduced to Anthony W. Moton, the man she would marry. What God puts togetherlet no man tear them apart, this belief is a continuation that Shay learned early in life andit is something she and her husband continue to believe in. The passion of working withyoung people is a gift from God, no person will tear that from Shay because it is with faith, determination, strength, and power that all things are possible. Valerie Keith was born and raised in Talladega, Alabama. Valerie is a Administrative AssistantGraphics Designer at the New Providence BaptistChurch. Together...
