The unsophisticated aboriginal of British Columbia is almost a memory of the past. He leaves no permanent monument, no ruins of former greatness. His original habitation has long given place to the frame house of sawn timber, and with the exception of the carvings in black slate made by the Hydah Indians of the Queen Charlotte Islands, and the stone hammers, spear and arrow points, fashioned in the days before the coming of the white man, the mementos of his sojourn in British Columbia are only relics in wood, bark or reeds. In the Alberni District of Vancouver Island there are two tribes of Indians, the Sessaht and the Opitchesaht. During the winter season the Sessahts live in a village which occupies a beautiful and commanding site on the west bank of the Somass River. Some thirty years ago when I first knew the Sessahts, they still celebrated the great Lokwana dance or wolf ritual on the occasion of an important potlatch, and I remember well the din made by the blowing of horns, the shaking of rattles, and the beating of sticks on the roof boards of Big Toms great potlatch house, when the Indians sighted the suppositional wolves on the river bank opposite the Village. Cassowary Books Wisdom In Your Pocket. This item ships from La Vergne, TN. Paperback.
